Downtown St. Louise. Spent 3 hours as a fun day on our trip here.

I wish I could share everything that has happened. With the trip to Paducah and the stops along the way, and the updates since, I have much to cover! Follow me on Facebook for more Photo updates.

We made a trip to Paducah, Kentucky. Stopping in Austin, TX for the Global Missions Conference, where we represented SIBI and AIM. I got to see my parents there for a "surprise" visit, and my youngest brother Obi! After the Conference, we made our way to the Windsong Church in Little Rock, AR. There we served the congregation in service projects and fellowship. From there it was our main destination of Paducah, Kentucky. AIM visits them once a year for a promotional trip, Paducah has partnered with AIM for many years and looks forward to each class that visits. We served at their annual fish fry, and did service projects for the church.

Many of the Guys did daily devotionals along the way, encouraging us at the beginning of our work. And when we didn't have an AIMer, we were encouraged my ministers and missionaries we met along the way. God's church is way bigger and more connected than I ever thought possible! In the states, and across the globe.

We made the long trek home quickly, in time to start our next term of classes. On the way home we slept through a severe tornado warning, God kept us safe and we made it home without a scratch. After all, nothing was getting in the way of my bed.

Field Selections! Field selections! On Oct 30 we turn in our selections of where we'd like to work! I'm so excited and nervous at the same time. it's only our top preference of where we'd like to go, and with whom, but I just can't wait! This is what we've been building up to since the beginning. We will know the final draft before Christmas break (that's the goal). A good amount of prayer and thought goes into this by the administration, I'm so thankful that they spend time in prayer over such an important part of our journey. Please keep myself and the Staff in your prayers, this will be an incredible time of patience and prayer. Wherever I go I'll serve the kingdom. No matter the cost, I will serve.

(Too cheesy? Good.)

Bottom: work team and classmates. Love these guys so much already! A few of us hopped on scooters and toured the city! Couldn't ask for better classmates.

Too many Pictures!! Not enough space!!

On the right is a service team I worked with. We put up the garage walls, measuring and cutting the wood ourselves!

We had too many moments to write down, too many laughs to share. I cant tell you how thankful I am to God and my supporters for making this possible. I've gone so many places, been taught by the most amazing teachers, and seen God do powerful things. Without Him and my wonderful supporters, I could never dream of such an amazing journey. And God's not done yet! This new term will challenge me in patience and knowledge. I'll learn more about God and myself constantly. I want to share so much of my journey with you, and how God's changed my life. I want to share with the stranger on the street, the people down the road, and the whole GLOBE the goodness of God. Wherever I go, whatever the cost, whomever I'm with, let's go! The world doesn't understand why I would step out on faith like this. the world doesn't see how I could forego a college education and dedicate 2 years of service. But what I'm learning here, is the world will see my God through my love. They will see God through the servants deeds. Praise God! What will we do next? Study, lots of study. In learning we grow, and AIM is all about growth.

One last thing. Our area church spent the weekend with Denver City. We went to the high school games and helped with their trunk or treat. So many of the community showed up and loved the pirate them we made! And on Sunday I presided over the Lord's Supper. Serving in front of the church used to be my biggest fear, now I can't wait to serve in worship.

As a team we met up with the youth group at the corn maze in Lubbock... and I got our team lost! But we still had a blast and ate dinner with the youth after.

Next trip will be my Christmas break. I'll visit my home and see my family and friends I've missed so much.

When we get closer I'll update you on what that will look like. And by then I'll know where I'm going!! I can't wait to share with you my field and team!

Please pray for me, more than likely I'll begin talks with more supporters as I figure out my field and the costs of living in that place. I can't thank my current supporters more for the blessing you've been to me, may God bless you and keep you. Amen.
