Tired of cooping ourselves up here in Eric's House and Alice's House, we organised a week-long trip for our Gang of 34 to Treetops -- a school camp 16 hours in the boonies from here -- far out of the range of TV, Internet and cell phone contact-- and far out of the range of COVID-19 germs.

A camp surrounded by wildlife and nature.

A camp in the African Sun!

One afternoon we drove several hours out into the enormous Busanga plains, and had a cookout in the early evening.

That night, driving back to Treetops camp, we saw more than 20 lions!

My camera does not take good photos at night. I hope I can get some good night-lion pics from Jason for you.

And on the way home yesterday we met an enormous herd of elephants near Lake Itezhi-tezhi.

Lots of aggressive mamas hollering that we better leave their kids alone.

Gulp!

Sca-a-a-ary!!!!

Stay tuned!
More to come!
