

Passover Joy!

This past Sunday was the first time this year that all our high school youngsters were allowed to assemble together for an "almost-normal" Namwianga church service. In the morning I told them, "Today is the first day of Passover. Next weekend is Easter."

My lesson Sunday morning was on the importance of the Passover, how the blood of the Lamb on their doorposts saved the Israelite slaves in Egypt. And the fact that Jesus' sacrifice came during Passover -- wow -- what a parallel! The Lamb of God replaced the old sacrificial system.

Now God will pass over the sin of those who believe and trust in His Special Sacrifice.

In the evening, I taught them the "Easter Hallelujah" hymn, then showed them the Bible.IS video of the last three chapters of Matthew.

After church three girls requested baptism.

We walked over to the baptistery at George Benson Christian College.

As the ceremony proceeded,
more requested baptism . . .

Then more . . .

In the end, 34 teenagers were baptised last night !!

Our John the Baptist last night was Alpha Moono.

He has albinism, but has not let that make him shy and insecure.

He was a top student and wonderful Christian example during his five years in our high school, even becoming the Head Prefect during his senior year.

Now he is in his third year at GBCC. A confident spiritual leader.

And our Passover Full Moon
glowed over the joy of the evening!
