Got these pics from Aster Syanyungwa, one of our George Benson Christian College missionaries in Western province. Probably sent via that microwave tower you see in the background of this first picture.

A new church building going up deep in the rural village regions cost nothing but sweat and a few weeks of time.

First

. . . hunt in the forest for straight trees suitable for poles. Chop them down and drag them in.

Then dig some holes in nice straight rows . . .

Then . . .

Then , , ,

Whoeee!! Only two weeks to get this far!
All that's left to do is thatch the roof and mud the walls! another two weeks!
This church building, built by the local members, goes up without a single dollar of expense. It costs them nothing but hard work and love.
